Helping customers to find what they were looking for using the I store catalogs and picking orders when they came through on the handheld computers

Lab Technician/Sales Assistant

Vision Express-Dudley

January 2016 to April 2016

Responsibilities

I answered the phone to clients who wished to know how their prescription was coming along and possible completion dates, as well as leaving messages for clients who's Glasses/Lenses were ready.

I repaired and made lenses based upon prescriptions given to the client, this included getting the correct powers of the lenses as well making sure they were cut to correct sizing in order for them to be a firm fit.

When the store was busy I was often called on to handle stock control this involved multiple areas of the store including the contact lense area, the frames which were to be put on show within the store as well as many stock lenses which had to be placed away in the correct places in order of power and style of lense E.G hard coated and Scratch resistant.

When the store became busy members of the lab were often called on to talk to customers about what frames would best suit them in comparison to the lenses which were needed as some frames could be too big or small and if lenses were to be placed within them it would cause irreparable damage to both lenses and frames.

Accomplishments

When I started the lab was short staffed and struggling to get the workload out but through intense learning from my line manager and fellow technicians I was able to pick up all of the needed tricks of the trade and become a valuable member of the lab team as well as the shop floor team when needed.

Skills Used

I had to use excellent communication skills as I would be speaking to people face to face and on the phone, meaning I made sure to speak clearly and confidently so to be the best help I could. I also needed excellent listening skills as certain prescriptions could have problems with them and we would often have very detailed acute instructions from the optometrists on what needed to be changed. I also had to keep a cool head as everything within the lab had a deadline which was often in a few hours or within the day or week.

Polisher

HUF GROUP LTD-Dudley

June 2012 to September 2012

Responsibilities

I prepared and polished automotive door handles ready to be painted and placed onto vehicles.

I also packaged said parts and took to the industrial unit handling the next stage of the process.

Accomplishments

I helped production advance by 50 per cent due to the speed and precision I placed within my work.

Skills Used

Time keeping and mostly hitting severely difficult deadlines as well as attention to detail.
